About

Rivers are the major component of hydrologic cycle and the habitat of billions of species. A healthy river creates a peaceful and recreational environment; give life to communities by providing moisture to forests and plants, creating a healthy ecosystem to create diversified opportunities for multipurpose projects. International River-Basin Foundation-WCPI and River Water User Association(India), being a key analytical and discussion forums over last decade for sustainable development activities by involving people throughout the world proposed to discuss the issues raised in their past national and International conferences, and to encourage world focus on adoption and mitigation strategies to achieve the sustainable development goals. Celebration of River's Day is one of the major initiatives taken by RWUA(I).

The world River's Day is celebrated by more than seventy countries worldwide on 4th Sunday of September. The Indian River's day is celebrated on September 27.
